Exclusive - Teachers' Day: Industry leaders' tribute to their teachers for lessons learnt from the wisdom received

On Teachers' Day, industry leaders pay tribute to their teachers for the lessons learned and the wisdom received.

Yamini Jaipuria, Managing Trustee, Cosmo Foundation

I have always believed that everyone deserves a happy life and no one should be left behind in this pursuit. Some sections of the society are unable to grow due certain institutional challenges and injustices.

We as individuals have a responsibility to join hands to make a difference in the lives of the underprivileged and make positive difference in their lives. We all should be working together to ensure that everyone despite of their circumstances is able to live a happy and meaningful life.

Since my early professional life, I have been engaged to work with and for the people. While transitioning to this role and spearheading Cosmo Foundation's initiatives, I became more connected with the communities at grass root levels. This helped me come out of my comfort zone, develop new skills and expand my knowledge base.

These experiences have been instrumental in my success as a social leader. And, I continuously pass on my learning and values to the youth and team involved with Cosmo Foundation to do their part in creating a more inclusive, equitable, and prosperous society for all.
